Contentverse 8 Unleashed

Chicago IL, October 8, 2013

The time has come to make the big announcement, so please be seated. Contentverse 8, the next step in content management made easy, is here. That's right; Computhink has released Contentverse to the public after a successful beta test phase that had fans raving. This new update provides several improvements. Keep reading.

The goal of Contentverse 8 is to make it simple for anyone to pick up and use on day one. If you've used Microsoft Office, you can instantly use Contentverse 8. Who else can say that? Experienced content and document management users will enjoy taking advantage of Contentverse 8's increased customization, expanded in this update with a variety of tasty modifications.

Let's start with numero uno. The big topic when talking content and file management: what good would a content management system be if you couldn't find what you're looking for immediately? Contentverse already shines when it comes to searching for a very specific file in a ridiculously large mountain of information, and that has been made even more effective with improvements to Advanced Find. Search speed is also improved with Contentverse 8's superior ability to handle large volumes and extended ability to perform "wildcard" searches.

Then of course there's the improvement to mobile-friendly Web Access, a beautified update that makes it easier to view content from anywhere... instantly. Now you can view authorized signatures, a feature our fans asked for and we provided. We're all about our fans. This valuable inclusion is just one of many features that will help users save time and be as efficient as possible – from anywhere and on any mobile device, of course. Whether you're on the train, at the beach, or in the office, you have no choice but to always be connected. That's just the age we live in and it's exactly what Contentverse 8 provides.

An additional feature of Contentverse 8 is advanced labeling capabilities, so you can organize your office files and collaborate better than ever. Apply custom colors to a variety of items and customize the Workflow Task accept and reject labels with one click. Also, to continue the theme of making your life easier, we made it so you can now quickly replicate security permissions with a simple copy and paste.
